Preliminary Report on Geology of Arenac County, Mich. , pp. 21-23. t In reference to the elevations given, it should be borne in mind that Lake Iluron has an average water-service elevation of 581 feet. Iii the limestone region north of Thunder Bay, there is also watershed leakage, oecasioned 1)-fissures in the lime rock. Through the gradual southwesterly tilting of the State the basins of the streams are undoubtedly increasing northward as far as Cheboygan River. In the Cheboygan drainage basin are a series of coast lakes, probably left as bayous by the recession of earlier Great Lake extensions. These have been encroached upon by sand and silt, forming inland lagoons lying below the 700-foot contour and having short outlets with...
