Not illustrated. 1894 Excerpt: . . . full Roman citizenship, and upon others Latin rights (see p. 41, note), and thus strove to blend the varied peoples and races within the boundaries of the empire into a real nationality, with community of interests and sympathies. He reformed the calendar so as to bring the festivals once more in their proper seasons, and provided against further confusion by making the year consist of 365 days, with an added day for every fourth or leap year. Besides these achievements, Caesar projected many vast undertakings, which the abrupt termination of his life prevented his carrying into execution. He ordered a survey of the enormous domains of the state; he proposed to make a code or digest of the Roman laws--which work was left to be performed by the Emperor Justinian six centuries later; he also planned many public works and improvements at Rome, among which were schemes for draining the Pontine Marshes and for changing the course of the Tiber. He further proposed to cut a canal across the Isthmus of Corinth, to construct roads over the Apennines, and to form a library to take the place of the great Alexandrian collection, which had been partly destroyed during his campaign in Egypt. But all his plans were brought to a sudden end by the daggers of assassins. The Death of Caesar (, 44 B. c). --Caesar had his bitter personal enemies, who never ceased to plot his downfall. There were, too, sincere lovers of the old...
